With such a vast range of windows on the market today, it can be daunting thinking about where to start...

It's no longer just about 'white' frames to hold the glass in place. In today's market, there are a huge range of colours and styles to suit every taste, with a variety of performance glazing options, security and hardware choices to complete the look and really add value to your home.

A little thought upfront about your key motivations, and how you want your windows to perform, will help us to ensure your final project is exactly as you imagined.

To help you get started, we've put together this handy checklist of things to consider whilst you're browsing through our brochure:

Aesthetics

From a traditional cottage feel to a sleek and contemporary design, we can help you choose the right style, colour and accessories to create your desired look. Try to get a feel for what you like and we'll take it from there.

Thermal Efficiency

Are you looking to reduce your reliance on expensive heating systems, or to block out unwanted heat from the sun? Our products offer differing levels of thermal efficiency depending on your requirements. They're each designed to minimise the level of heat that escapes, whilst also harnessing a comfortable level of warmth from the sun to help heat your home. We'll help you get the balance right.

Finishing Touches

The finer details will bring life and personality to your home - make sure you consider how you'd like to integrate handles, locks and hinges that work to compliment your style. Don't compromise on security - ask about our range of high-security hardware to keep you and your family safe.

A perfect finish means that every component of your new windows and feature doors works together to complete the final look. The hardware you choose (including handles and hinges) can transform the feel instantly.

If your tastes are suited to modern designs, you can reflect that in simple hardware with sleek lines. If you're more traditionally minded, perhaps you'd like more detail. Either way, our hardware is built to last with robust materials and quality finishes.

Energy Window

Energy Efficiency – All Year Round

The thermal efficiency of a product is categorised by its U-value, a measure of how much heat is allowed to escape through it. A well-insulated building component will have a low U-value.

You can also gain an indication of the energy efficiency of window products from their Window Energy Rating (WER) which works much like the energy ratings you see on fridges & washing machines – products with a rating of A and above will deliver the best level of energy efficiency.

All of our products are optimised to achieve the lowest possible U-values and best performing WERs, ensuring you're in control of the temperature, whether its super-sunny or snowing outside! This means you can keep your room comfortably warm and energy efficient all year round.

For more information regarding the energy efficiency of any of our products or builds just get in touch with one of our friendly advisors.
